Report Discovery Of New Source Of Child-Birth Drug

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

GAINESVILLE, Fla., April 25 —(AP)—The University of Florida today announced discovery of a new source of the child-birth medicine, ergot, in Florida.

Ergot has come mainly from Iron Curtain countries. Their supplies have been dwindling and costs recently have doubled. The Florida report says the mushroom discovery, the first of its kind, promises an independent American source. Ergot has been coming from a fungus found only on cereal grains.

This drug is one of the oldest and most important in childbirth. It is given almost routinely to contract the uterus after a baby's birth. Lately ergot has been reported good for migraine headache.

The discovery came as a by-product of a lifelong interest in mushrooms by 80-year-old Dr. W. A. Murrill, formerly of the New York botanical gardens, and now at the university here. A botanist friend of Murrill, Dr. Erdman West, sent him a mushroom discovered growing at the base of oaks and palms near Deland and Gainesville, Fla.

To find out whether this mushroom was poisonous, Dr. Murrill sent it to Dr. R. B. French of the Florida agricultural experiment station. The latter fed it to rats and it did not poison them.

But one rat was pregnant and she promptly aborted. This production of miscarriages is one of the well-known powers of ergot. The final work was done by Dr. Ross M. Baxter, now in Toronto and Dr. W. M. Lauter and Dr. Lauretta E. Fox of the University of Florida.

The ergot mushroom was rare, and the scientists developed a method of growing it in the laboratory. This artificial cultivation promises to supply quantity and quality to compete with the grain ergot.

Find Body Of Morrow Co. Man Near County Home

MT. GILEAD, April 25 — Edmund Crispy Rogers, 72, who had been living at the Morrow County home, was found dead in a field near the home yesterday by a posse of Mt. Gilead High School senior boys organized by Sheriff George Mosier.

Rogers is believed to have died while on a walk early Sunday. He walked away from the home shortly after midnight Sunday and was found yesterday at 9:45 a.m.

Rogers had been ill for a number of years and was in poor physical condition, the sheriff reported. He apparently died of natural causes, the sheriff said.

Born in Morrow County in 1879, he had lived there all his life. He never married. He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Roy Linder of Denmark, Mrs. Flossie Pearson of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Bessie Rogers of Detroit.

Services will be held Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Craven Funeral home. Rev. Robert Baker of Mt. Gilead will officiate. He will be buried in the Bethel Cemetery.

Curtain time will be 8:15 tonight for the presentation of the three-act comedy, "Cheaper By the Dozen," at the Palace Theater by the senior class of Harding High School. A matinee performance was given at the theater this afternoon.

The play, which has a cast of 16 seniors, has been under the direction of William Calvert, speech instructor at Harding.

Tickets for tonight's performance will be available at the door of the theater tonight.

"Cheaper By the Dozen," made into a hit movie last year, was written by Frank Gilbreth and Ernestine Gilbreth Carey and tells a story of every-day happenings in the lives of Mother and Father Gilbreth and their 12 children. The father is an efficiency expert and it is his firm conviction that what works in the factory will work at home.

Marion Patrol Lauded After Inspection

The Marion substation of the State Highway Patrol was lauded yesterday on the fine appearance of its men and the fine condition of its cars and station equipment.

The plaudits were given by Patrol Lieutenant S. B. Radcliffe, commanding officer of District A, which includes Marion and other northwestern Ohio counties, following his semi-annual inspection of the station held at 10 a.m. yesterday.

The eight men forming the local station personnel, under command of Cpl. Tom Morgan, passed their two hour inspection with flying colors and deserved commendation, Lt. Radcliffe said.

He was assisted in his inspection by Sgt. E. L. Davey, equipment sergeant for District A. Both men are from district headquarters at Findlay.

The local station equipment inspected included six cars, one motorcycle, a variety of weapons, first aid, radio, weighing and other similar police facilities.

Serving here under Cpl. Morgan are the following patrolmen: Doyle M. De Walt, second in command; Garnet E. Moore, Edward P. Goffos, Albert A. LeLakus, Paul E. Wolf, Thomas W. Le Savage, Merle E. Shanklin and Fred E. Scott.

Fulfillment

Corp., officials of the firm said today. Plans for this needed expansion are being made now. For example, local office facilities will have to be expanded to accommodate the International Nickel Company's mailing lists containing the names and addresses of hundreds of thousands of users of nickel throughout the world.

2 Million Pieces

The total of trade journals mailed to persons on these lists will be well over 2,000,000 pieces a year, Fulfillment Corp. officials said.

This tremendous bulk of magazines will boost both mail tonnage and postal rates to new all-time highs, company officials said. The magazines will be trucked directly from the postal substation in the Fulfillment Corp. building on West Center street to outgoing trains.

The eight trade journals which will be mailed from here will be sent in individual envelopes. Right now they are devoted primarily to explaining to manufacturers of products using nickel how to conserve short nickel supplies to do the most for the defense effort.

As nickel is used as a base for virtually all chrome plated articles and in the manufacture of steel alloys and firearms, the importance to industry of information provided by these publications is readily apparent, Fulfillment officials said.

The eight publications are each printed in the form of a tabloid sized newspaper but on glossy paper stock. They average 10 to 12 pages per issue.

Brehm Takes Witness Stand

WASHINGTON, April 25—(AP)—Rep. Walter E. Brehm (R-Ohio) returned to the witness stand today to complete his testimony on charges that he unlawfully took campagin gifts from two women employes of his office.

Brehm began his testimony in federal court yesterday afternoon with a denial that he ever got anything but "conversation" from Mrs. Clara Soliday.

Brehm conceded the 74-year-old widow contributed a total of $600 to his campaign funds in 1946 and 1947. But he said this was done without his knowledge and he didn't learn about it until early 1950.

Brehm's testimony today, defense attorney Leo A. Rover said, will include a denial that the lawmaker ever accepted any money from Mrs. Emma S. Craven, another former employe of his office.

Later, Rover told reporters, Mrs. Brehm will take the stand as the final defense witness.

Mrs. Soliday and Mrs. Craven testified earlier in the trial as government witnesses.

Brehm, 58, insisted he never received any money from Mrs. Soliday, although she told him in 1946 she wanted to make monthly campaign contributions. His reply, he said, was that he didn't "want any part of it."

If she insisted on helping, Brehm said, he told Mrs. Soliday to mail the money to the Republican committee in Ohio.

47 Health Units For 88 Counties In Ohio Suggested

The Federal Security Agency today suggested formation of 47 local public health units in Ohio to cover the state's 88 counties. The Associated Press reported.

To staff these units, the agency recommended a minimum of 158 doctors and 1,463 nurses.

The pattern was suggested in a publication the FSA said is designed to show how regional planning would enable general hospitals and local health departments to work together for better health in every community.

Under the proposal Marion County would be included in Unit 23 along with Morrow County. Two physicians and 14 nurses would staff the unit. Other units in this area and the number of physicians and nurses are: Unit 11, Hardin and Hancock, 1 and 15; Unit 12, Crawford and Wyandot, 2 and 11; Unit 21, Champaign, Logan and Shelby, 2 and 17; and Unit 22, Delaware, Madison and Union, 2 and 14.

items most of which already are under separate price ceilings — autos, chemicals, tobacco products, lumber and metals, for example.

The United States Chamber of Commerce, in a statement, voiced confidence that manufacturers would "make every effort to adjust their operations" to the new ceiling.

The chamber warned however that "any price control device carries the danger of disrupting defense production," but the chamber added:

"Since the regulation is to be temporary until special procedure for individual industries can be set up, this may give the government the opportunity to study methods for improving future controls."

Explaining his action, DiSalle said:

"Many companies increased their prices (after Korea) beyond the point at which increased labor and material costs could justify.

"These prices could and should be rolled back."

The Jan. 26 "freeze" congealed into the price structure each company's price boosts, whether "justifiable" or not. It also froze the disproportionately low prices of those firms which cooperated in the voluntary controls.

23 Pages Long

The new regulation, 23 pages long, seeks to iron out the inequities by this fairly simple formula for repricing:

The manufacturer goes back to his price in the period April 1 through June 24, 1950. If this pre-Korea period does not reflect his seasonal price shifts, he can take any of the three preceding quarter-years.

To this he may add increases in materials costs up to December 31, 1950 and factory payroll costs up to March 15, 1951. He may not add increases in overhead costs such as advertising, administrative expenses, sales promotion, or overtime pay.

"It should be underscored," DiSalle said, "that we are not adopting a cost-plus principle. This regulation allows only for past increases, and it does not carry with it any implication that any future cost increases will be handled on a similar automatic basis.

"It would be completely futile to attempt price controls on a cost-plus basis, for it would result in prices spiraling upward x x x We cannot successfully stabilize prices if we permit auto-

Elected Head Of Monsanto

Dr. Charles Allen Thomas of Dayton yesterday was elected president of the Monsanto Chemical Co. by the board of directors meeting in St. Louis at the general offices of the corporation.

He will take office May 1. He succeeds William M. Rand, who will retire on that date in accordance with provisions of the company's employe pension plan.

Mr. Rand has been president since Oct. 1, 1945.

Dr. Allen has been a vice president. He was a founder of the Thomas & Hochwalt Laboratory in Dayton, now a part of the Central Research Department of the Monsanto Chemical Co.

Announcement of Dr. Thomas's election was made by Allan B. Morton, resident business manager of Monsanto's Scioto Laboratory, north of Marion in the former Scioto Ordnance Plant area.

Union Co. Man Charged With Rustling

MARYSVILLE, April 25—John Garvey, alleged sheep and cattle rustler operating in Union and surrounding counties last year, entered a plea of not guilty when he was arraigned before Judge LeRoy Allen in the common pleas court Saturday. He was indicted in November.

Garvey's trial was set for May 28 and his bond set at $2,500 for each of the two counts of the grand larceny indictments. He is being held in the county jail here in lieu of bond.

Garvey had been in the Pickaway County jail up until a week ago Saturday morning, on charges of selling stolen property. He furnished bond of $1,000 and was released, only to be recognized by Union County Sheriff Walter T. Galloway that same night as he was walking down a Marysville street. The sheriff booked him on two counts. He held him for Clark County authorities, who wanted him for similar charges. He was returned to this county early last Saturday for arraignment.

Work for Everybody

By FRANK TRIPP

IF YOU GET a grin out of this don't misunderstand the motive. Rather be convinced and happy that in this day there still are people who are a thing to get out and hustle for a living.

For I read it only need to pick up one of dozens of publications where real, capital, enterprising folks cater to make their own way. Two and there are not more of them: more such people I mean. Opportunities seem abundant enough.

It's quite marvelous, the many avenues that are open. Let's see now; This month you can make big money metalizing baby's first shoes into book ends. You don't need to envy the plumber, you can be one. Now is the time to learn custom tailoring. A book will tell the amateur inventor how to get $100,000 instead of $100 for his better mouse trap.

TRIPP

You can lick every bully in the town if you'll learn the new American Judo, which before we got mad at Japan was jujuitsu. You can become a real estate broker from a free book. Another one will make you a locksmith or you can get an engineering degree in a few months' spare time. Deep sea diving can be learned by mail in your bath tub, perhaps.

* * *

MAYBE YOU'D LIKE to be a hypnotist and even learn to hypnotize yourself. The way things are going that would be comforting. On the other hand perhaps you'd rather become a meat cutter in eight short weeks. Or in 8 to 12 months you can master landscaping, if your prefer outside work. Bricklaying and carpentry also offer fresh air jobs.

If fresh air isn't important there are almost endless ways to become a welder, lawyer, photographer, draftsman, dental technician, watchmaker, cartoonist, piano tuner, baker, musician, stone setter, engraver, jeweler. Easiest of all is to become a writer.

You can learn to stuff birds and animals, and for a quarter you'll be told how to build your own power lawn mower. No need to own a garden or a farm; hydroponics grows vegetables and flowers without soil, indoors or out. How about raising clean, odorless Syrian hamsters? They look like chipmunks without tails.

On the sure thing side is the man who trains you to "get on Uncle Sam's pay roll." He ought to get cut rates. His list of prospects is getting pretty slim. Yet maybe you'd rather buy a gadget that will locate uranium. Why not analyze hand writing, play the guitar or take a course in breaking wild horses? No foolin', there is such a course.

Anyway, "awaken your hidden powers; you are a sleeping giant." If you weren't you'd be raising fish worms, which may be learned for a quarter—or growing frogs. Then learn ventriloquism and you can visit with them—or you might whittle out a Charlie McCarthy for yourself.

* * *

WHEN I WAS A kid I answered one of those ads and sent in $2. In no time I was local representative of the Sun Advertising Bureau. It said on the $2 card that I was a listed, licensed and bonded hand bill peddler.

I had paid $2 for permission from Chicago to do something that I had been doing in Elmira for a year. I thought I was stuck but I wrote to some of the firms that the Sun Bureau said might be in need of my bonded services. I had to get that two bucks back, for it was a whole week's profit from my newspaper route.

By midsummer I had two boys working for me distributing Peruna, Swamp Root and Lydia Pinkham throwaways. I got $1.50 a thousand, paid the kids 75 cents. I pocketed the difference and saw all the ball games; while they littered up front porches with edifying literature—what they didn't tuck under crosswalks.

So it works, folks; don't let anybody kid you. But the catch is that you've got to do a little work yourself—just a little — which makes it bad these days.

Only those who lost can tell

But little do they know the sorrow
That is hid behind a smile.

Love Triumphant

By ADELE GARRISON

Mother Graham's vehemence in protesting her refusal to go in another room, lie down, and thus miss whatever excitement my father should bring with him made us all laugh, although there was no disrespect—and she knew it—in our mirth.

"I don't mean go into another room, Mother," I told her. "I mean lie down in here."

With a swift movement, Katharine swooped young Peter from the couch into her arms.

"This young man needs to be in the other room," she said, "so that he can be quiet and get to sleep. I just dropped him here in passing. Please, Mother Graham, stretch out on this couch for a minute or two. You won't go to sleep, but you will relax and rest better than you will sitting up."

My mother-in-law's eyes looked at the couch with a touch of wistfulness.

"Will you promise me, Margaret," she said, "that you won't let me go to sleep, and that you will help me to get up and get on my shoes before you let your father in when he knocks?"

"Don't worry, Mater mia," Dicky said. "I shall be strictly on the job, and I'll keep him cooling his heels until you have yours safely on."

"Oh, no!" she fluttered. "You musn't keep 'the Chief' waiting."

All the awe and admiration she feels for my father and his work was in her voice, and Dicky hastened to reassure her.

"Don't you trust your baby boy and his spouse?" he asked. "Madge is a maid par excellence, she'll have you in your shoes, and on your feet by the time I reach the door."

"Well then," she said, yielding, "I will lie down for a few minutes—or seconds — whichever it will be."

I slipped off her modish pumps, helped her to lie down, and spread an afghan over her. Faith, who never forgets her grandmother, stooped to kiss her as she followed Katharine and young Peter into my bedroom.

"Take a good rest, Grandzie, darling," she said, and her grandmother's eyes followed her through the door.

"She gets sweeter every day," she said fatuously.

"Amen" Dicky responded, and then he drew me away toward the big bay window.

"Don't worry, Mother!" he called back. "Madge and I are on our toes. This first hint of Dad's arrival, and we'll come running."

"I'm trusting you so much that I'm going to close my eyes," his mother told us, and Dicky chuckled softly as we turned toward the window.

"She'll be asleep in another second," he said. "What do you think, ought we to waken her?"

"Of course we must," I told him. "She'd never forgive either of us if we didn't."

"Okay," he said. "Now, don't even look surprised, but I want you to see what's behind the curtains."

The boys were sitting on the window seat, but they had not disturbed the curtains, and Dicky spoke to them in a low voice.

"Get up," he said, "as if you were going to move to some other part of the room. But stand still and keep your eyes peeled on the windows. But don't wag your tongues out loud, no matter what you see."

The faces of the boys were avid with interest but they said no word as Dicky drew the curtains slightly revealing the heavy iron bars securely fastening the windows against any possible intrusion.

"Gee!" the boys whispered, and I groped for Dicky's hand.

"The bars!" I murmured. "Oh, I can't bear them to be back."

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

As our work with the antibiotics goes forward, we are becoming more and more aware that they may have what are known as undesirable side effects. One of the strangest of these is the encouragement which the antibiotics seem to offer to the growth of fungi that are known to exist in the body along with germs. It has been noted that when mixtures of germs are exposed to various antibiotics, those susceptible to the antibiotics are killed, but the remainder grow more abundantly than ever, perhaps because they have a free field.

The same thing is apparently true of a yeast-like parasite, known as monilial albicans, which normally exists in the mouth, bowel, and on the skin of healthy persons, but which ordinarily does no harm because its concentration is not great.

Recently, however, a number of persons have been observed who developed symptoms from this cause after bein treated with penicillin or aureomycin. Apparently the germs killed off by these medicines served previously to keep down the growth of the parasite. Once the germs were out of the way, it could multiply rapidly enough to cause harmful effects.

Such patients have sore mouth, so-called "hairy" tongue or black tongue, and cracking at the corners of the mouth. A number also developed persistent diarrhea, after treatment with penicillin, aureomycin, or chloromycetin. In cans was found growing abundantly in the stools.

Twenty-five persons with symptoms of this kind have been observed. In some there was infection of the mouth and esophagus; in others, of the intestinal tract and, in still others, of the lungs.

In those patients with mouth symptoms, the usual course of events was for treatment of sore throat to have been carried out by means of antibiotics. The infection of the throat cleared up, only to be followed in from 24 to 72 hours by burning tongue, mouth, and throat. The tongue was thickly coated, often with an overgrowth of the little projections of the tongue called papillae. This gives the appearance of a black or hairy tongue. Later, this coating sloughed off, leaving the tongue dry and swollen, with a beefy-red color. There is also some change in the sense of taste.

Should these symptoms occur following treatment with one of the antibiotics, it is important to make cultures to determine whether or not the monolilial albicans is causing the difficulty so that the condition may be promptly treated. The parents must not look to the physician to give antibiotics for minor complaints, but they are employed only when the need for them is quite severe.

Crawford Co. Commissioners Set Budget

Increase of $200,000 Reported Over 1950 Spending

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, April 25—An increase of approximately $200,000 was reported today in the final appropriation resolution adopted by Crawford County commissioners for 1951. Expenditures during 1950 amounted to $700,590 compared with an estimated $900,474 to be spent this year.

While expenditures under the general fund have increased only $44,000 from $430,000 last year to $474,000 this year, the bulk of the increased budget will go for construction, repair and maintenance of roads and bridges.

Last year, only $230,000 was appropriated for these purposes. This year, an estimated $360,000 will be spent. Commissioners said the severe winter has left the county's roads in their worst condition in years, resulting in the larger allocation.

Another large boost is accounted for in the appropriation for poor relief. Last year, $22,486 was appropriated for poor relief while a $40,040 allocation has been made this year.

Because of a change in the county auditor's office last month, commissioners adopted a three-month budget in January and later approved the year's financial budget after Albert Stetzer, Bucyrus Township Democrat, became auditor.

Allocations to various offices include, commissioners, $18,071; auditor, $26,755; treasurer, $16,075 prosecutor, $6,702; bureau of inspection, $5,000; Common Pleas Court, $2,117. Juvenile Court, $7,100, Probate Court, $14,767; clerk of courts, $14,112; coroner, $558, board of elections, $16,495; maintenance of courthouse and jail, $68,300; other buildings and land, $9,000.

Sheriff, $25,202; recorder, $9,405; tuberculosis testing and agriculture fund, $12,900; maintenance of tubercular patients in hospitals, $14,000; County Home, $42,300. Children's Home, $49,00; dependent children, $16,000; soldier's relief, $40,560; engineer's office, $14,649; insurance and pensions, $18,509; engineer's office from motor vehicle and gasoline taxes, $13,985; road construction, $72,000; road maintenance and repair, $165,000, bridge and culvert fund, $40,000; maintenance and repair of bridges and culverts, $36,000.

A 220-pound aquamarine is the largest gem ever found, says the National Geographic Society.

WARNS ON KOREA. Agreement with General Douglas MacArthur is revealed in Tokyo by Lt. Gen. Sir Horace C. H. Robertson (above), British Commonwealth Far Eastern Commander, on the need of U. N. bombing of Red Manchurian bases to end the disastrous stalemate. The officer advocates this step lest the enemy attack in such strength as to drive the U. N. forces from Korea.

Mrs. Crabtree Elected Head Of Glenwood P.-T.A.

Mrs. James Crabtree was elected president of the Glenwood P.-T.A. at a recent meeting at the school. Elected to serve with her were Mrs. Gerald Persinger, vice president; Mrs. Eva Walters, secretary, Mrs. Viola Derdinger, treasurer and Mrs Virginia Dowler, council representative. Miss Clara Alice Wilson, principal of the school, will serve as second vice president.

During the meeting J. D. Torrance spoke on the school bond issue and the members voted to help in house-to-house canvassing, soliciting support of the issue.

Earl Foster, a sixth grader, opened the meeting by reading devotions. A skit, "The Perfect Husband" was given, followed by songs by the Northside Mothersingers, directed by George Wingett.

Marsox Opener Here Spoiled By Springfield Giants, 10-2

through the SPORTSCOPE with A.L. McCLAIN

LONG WAIT. Not since 1944 while hurling with Newark against a Marion club in the then young Ohio-Indiana League had Ned Garver hurled a no-hit game. Now pitching for the St. Louis Browns in a Grapefruit game against the Cardinals, Garver had only one inning to go to pull the trick.

Instead Manager Zack Taylor lifted the talented Ohio product and inserted a pinch hitter. Lou Sleater took over in the ninth and blanked the Cards to preserve Garver's hitless record.

RAISED EYEBROWS. When the story came over the wire recently more than one eyebrow was raised around the sportsdesk. Why not give Garver a chance to go down as a no-hit pitcher even if it was in an exhibition game? observers asked.

The Sporting News publication answered that query in its recent edition. Quoting the story in the News:

"It was his decision," said Zack Taylor.

"After Garver's eight hitless innings Sleater came in. Garver, who told Trainer Bob Bauman on the rubbing table that 'I never did feel tired,' was taken out of the game for a pinch-hitter, Johnny Berardino, when the Browns had a chance to score—their first and only opportunity against Tom Ponolsky.

FANS BOO. "The 1,385 fans gave out with a big round of boos when Garver was taken from the game, but here's the story behind the removal.

"Ray Coleman had gone all the way to second base when a bare-less infield pop fly fell safely among a flock of Redbirds to open the eighth inning. Sherman Lollar sacrificed him to third and then Joe Lutz received the first walk off Rookie Poholsky.

"It's meant Garver was to be the first hitter Taylor sent to Garver and said, 'Do you want to hit or?'

"Ned replied, 'I don't care about pitching any more, if you want to use a hitter it's okay with me.'

"Berardino batted sending Coleman home with the only run of the game."

KELL OR ROSEN. Al Cox on the Fremont News-Messenger sports editor writes that in the seven games he saw between Cleveland and Detroit last season Al Rosen outshone Detroit's George Kell.

But remember, Al, seven games do not a season make.

Cox on also writes Jerome Surratt, who was terrific against Harding last season, has been outstanding in Fremont Ross spring football practice.

Incidentally, Al goes along with us as picking New York in the National and Boston in the American Leagues as teams likely to tangle in the World Series.

Locals Pound Ball Hard, But Falter

By A. L. McCLAIN

Marion's Red Sox got the hits, but Springfield the runs as the visiting Giants clubbed the local team, 10-2, before an estimated 1,000 fans in the opener last night at Lincoln Park.

The two clubs play again tonight with either Dick Tarys, southpaw from Detroit, or Alex "Bobo" Salerno, righthander from Utica, N. Y. pitching for Marion. Chuck Hagy is scheduled to toil for Springfield.

Threat of rain and cold weather kept the attendance below that expected. It rained briefly midway in the game, but soon passed over.

Bob Penny, starting Marsox hurler, went into the eighth inning with only one scratch hit against his offering, but made the mistake of serving fast pitches to Jerry Rende and Onash, Giant catcher. Before the inning was over the visitors had scored three times and had a comfortable margin

Slow On Paths

Marion batsmen got 11 hits off the offerings of Fernand Thibault including two triples and two doubles while Andy Gilbert's crew got only five safeties. The Marsox slowness on the base paths and Springfield's unerring pegs cut down several runners.

Five miscues in the field combined with his wildness kept Penny in trouble almost every inning. He walked 10 while fanning 12.

The winners got a run in the third without a hit on two walks and an error. In the previous inning a walk, scratch infield hit, and error had given the Giants a lead. The Marsox got a run in the fifth when Jim Evanik walked and Dick Brodowski tripled him home. Brodowski was out at third when he overslid the bag.

Evanik, who had three hits for the evening, tied the score at 2-2, in the seventh when he tripled and stole home, Brodowski at bat.

After Penny had given up a hit, two walks, and hit a batter in the ninth, Bob Marciniec relieved him and gave up the fifth Giant hit. Before the inning was over the winners had added five more runs.

Good Control

Fernand Thibault, Springfield pitcher, showed good control in winning. He walked only two and was finding the corners most of the time. He fanned seven.

Mayor Harold F. Robinson donned a Marsox cap and tossed the first pitch to Safety-Service Director Ralph Forrest. The Mayor's pitch was a fast ball that broke low and bounced past the catcher to the backstop.

* * *

Jerry Rende, who homered in the eighth for Springfield, was with the clubs last season and is an oldtimer in the Ohio-Indiana league.

* * *

The dubious honor of making the first squawk to the umpire went to Andy Gilbert who beefed about a called strike in the fourth inning. Later when he thought the umpire had called a strike against one of his players, Andy went charging up to the plate, but walked sheepishly back to his third base coaching box when the umpire pointed to the scoreboard where it was registered as a ball.

Although outhit, Springfield won the game, 10-2, with a homerun outburst in the eighth inning.

Russians May Take Part In Next Olympics

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK, April 25—(AP)—Russia has posed some mighty absorbing questions by clearing the way to compete in the 1952 Olympic games.

Does this mean that the Kremlin has decided there is little likelihood of world war next year?

Does this mean that Russian athletes can now compete on a par with the world's best?

There is no way to answer the first question positively, but it can be safely assumed that Soviet sports stars will not enter international competition unless they are confident they will show up well against the athletes from the democracies.

It also can be safely asserted that if Russians compete, American interests in the games will be at the highest pitch ever.

Russia has been flirting with the Olympic games ever since World War II ended, and there was expected on the Soviet might compete at London in 1948 but nothing came of it.

Slowly Russian amateur governing bodies have affiliated with the international federations—a necessary prelude to Olympic competition.

But until now there has been no central Olympic committee in Russia. Now it has been erected and has applied for recognition. Approval seems certain.

There may be some question raised as to just how amateur are Russian sports. As Avery Brundage, U. S. Olympic president points out, cash payments to athletes and special training camps are prohibited. There have been reports of such goings-on in Russia.

"But there is no reason why Russia should not participate in the Olympic games if it complies with Olympic rules," says Brundage.

Newark Tops Lima, 11-9

By The Associated Press

Newark won its opening game last night in the Ohio-Indiana Baseball League.

League openers, scheduled for Sunday, were postponed twice because of bad weather.

Playing at home, Newark defeated Lima, 11-9, before 1,083 fans. Left fielder Walt Brizes drove in the winning run on a double in the bottom half of the eighth.

The same teams play again tonight.

Schoolboy In Main Event

NEW YORK, April 25—(AP)—Undefeated Chico Vejar rated a big favorite to chalk up his 28th straight victory tonight against hard-hitting Billy Murphy in the main eight rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

The 19-year-old Stamford (Conn.) schoolboy sensation has won all 27 of his pro starts, 17 of them by knockouts. Murphy, a 24-year-old New Yorker with a stiff wallop in his left hand, represents Chico's toughest opposition so far.

The 10 p.m. (E.S.T.) bout, limited to eight rounds because of Vejar's youth, will be broadcast and telecast.

Feller Off To Good Start for Indians

Pittsburgh Relief Ace, Werle, Makes Boss Man Rickey, Master Trader

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sportswriter

Every time Willie Werle saunters to the mound for Pittsburgh he increases Branch Rickey's reputation as a master judge of players.

It was back in 1949 that Rickey, then head of the Brooklyn Dodgers, offered $200,000 for the left-hand relief specialist. The Pirates obtained the offer. And it is Rickey thankful. Branch, of course, is now general manager of the Bucs.

Funny thing. Werle wasn't worth a plugged nickel in spring training. In some 30 innings he was pounded for something like 60 hits and 20 runs. But once the season started playing for keeps, he quickly began to look like a million bucks.

Saved Three

He's been in four of the Pirates six contests at Pittsburgh. He won them all. He saved three and received credit for the other. The two games in which Willie did not see action, the Pirates lost.

Werle came to the rescue of starter Vernon Law yesterday, hurling the Cubs scoreless for two innings to preserve Pittsburgh's first victory in Chicago. That made it 10 scoreless innings this season for the 29-year-old native of Oakland, Calif.

The victory tied Pittsburgh with Chicago for second place, a half game behind the National League leading Dodgers, who were beaten, 7-4, by the Boston Braves in Brooklyn. The Cardinals edged into the first division with a 3-1 win over Cincinnati in St. Louis. The Phillies handed the New York Giants their sixth straight loss with a 6-4 victory under the Philadelphia lights.

Bob Feller kept the Indians in first place in the American League stopping the surprising Chicago White Sox, 5-2, in Cleveland. Runner-up Washington remained a half game behind, upsetting the Red Sox, 7-5, in Boston's Fenway Park. The defending champion Yankees, behind the four-hit pitching of steady Eddie Lopat, shut out the Philadelphia Athletics, 3-0, in New York, to retain third place. Detroit and the St. Louis Browns were rained out.

Sid Gordon's three run homer off Reliefer Carl Erskine helped Boston come from behind to snap the Dodger five-game winning streak. Max Surkont went the route for his second victory.

Ends Slump

Stan Musial broke out of a batting slump, cracking three singles to spark the Cards nine-hit attack against Willie Ramsdell and two successors. Veteran Max Lanier spaced eight hits in his first start for the winners. Musial had only two hits to show for 13 times at bat before yesterday.

Washington's Bob Kuzava became the second visiting southpaw to pitch the distance and win in Fenway Park this season. Alex Kellner of the A's was the other. Last year only two lefthanders—Hal Newhouser and Gene Bearden—did the trick.

Socking six assorted flingers for 12 hits including five doubles and a triple, the Phillies slapped the sixth straight defeat upon the skidding Giants. Bob Miller gained credit for the victory but needed Jim Konstanty to get the final out for him.

During the Boer War, the British used a huge kite to raise a man who made military observations.

Beshore Called Tough Customer By British Press

LONDON, April 25—(AP)—Freddie Beshore of Harrisburg, Pa., lost his 10-round bout to European light heavyweight champion, Don Cockrell, last night, but British newspapers hailed him as the toughest thing ever seen in a boxing ring here.

The Daily Graphic said "Beshore won a title—that of champion punch assimilator in boxing." The Daily Express called him "A walking punching bag." The News Chronicle said, "Beshore must be one of the toughest men in the ring today."

Cockrell, the 181-pound Londoner, won a clear-cut one-sided decision, but Beshore never let up. The Daily Express said, "Beshore's rough and tumble tactics had only the most fragmentary connection with boxing, but the Yank, like a tank, kept moving forward, firing punches which rarely landed on the target areas and which certainly never hurt."

Millers Take Lead By Beating Toledo

By The Associated Press

Milwaukee has climbed into the American Association lead, knocking Toledo into second place by defeating the Mud Hens, 5-3, last night.

The game, played in a drizzle before 2,457 fans in Toledo, lasted nearly three hours. The Brewers piled up a 5-0 lead in the eighth but had to check a Hen rally behind reliever Virgil Jester after the winning runs were on base in the ninth.

Columbus pulled up to a 3-3 record as Cotton Deal pitched and batted the Redbirds to a 4-2 win over third-place Kansas City.

An error cost Louisville its sixth setback in seven starts. A dropped ball at the plate by Catcher Bobby Scherbarth in the 11th inning allowed Willie Mays to cross with the clinching run for a 5-4 Minneapolis decision.

At Indianapolis, the Indians clustered eight of their 13 hits for seven runs in the first two frames to coast over St. Paul, 10-4.

Wedding Is On, Golf Match Off

WOOSTER, O., April 25—(AP)—The Wooster College Scots have called off their golf match with Otterbein Friday. The Scots' No. 3 player is getting married to the daughter of former British Open Champion Denny Shute.

A spokesman for Wooster said loss of Bob Paige would weaken the school's team too much to warrant playing the match. A substitute date could not be arranged.

The marriage between 22-year-old Paige and Miss Nancy Shute, 18, will be in Westminster Church in Akron, Friday. Both are from Akron.

Shute, professional at the Portage Country Club, also won the P.G.A. championship on two occasions. His daughter is not a golfer.

Radio and Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Great Yarns on the Air

THE SOMERSET MAUGHAM Theater, to which Mr. Maugham is now contributing little but a filmed glimpse of himself, usually patting a book—whatever that is—has been extended from a half to a full hour and has switched its allegiance to NBC. You'll find it at 9:30 p.m. E.S.T. Monday (NBC-TV) every other week, alternating with Robert Montgomery's theater.

I'm not altogether happy about this change and I fail to understand why it was done. Many of Mr. Maugham's dry, sardonic tales were admirably suited to half an hour; they are going to rattle around in an hour. For the first program, though, the producer selected not a short story but Mr. Maugham's monumental "Of Human Bondage," probably his best novel. Though I'll take "Cakes And Ale" and "Moon and Sixpence" any day.

It was an ambitious—or unfortunate—choice. "Of Human Bondage" one of the most painful personal novels ever penned, cannot be whittled down to an hour without grave damage to Mr. Maugham's characters. This is the tragedy of a sensitive man hopelessly in love with an incredibly vulgar woman. He despises her but can't get her out of his blood. Abbreviated to an hour, the story was flattened and coarsened. Instead of exciting our sympathy, Philip ended only by exasperating us as he became a pitiful and rather dull sucker not a tragic figure at all. I must admit it's the hardest part in the world to play sympathetically and it's just possible that the late Leslie Howard, who played it in the movies, was the only man for the job.

* * *

I HAVE A number of other complaints. The adaptors were carried away by delicacy to the point of softening all of Mr. Maugham's most telling blows, presumably in the interest of protecting the home audience from the facts of life. In the book, Philip actually prayed for the death of his uncle so that he might inherit his money. An evil prayer but a believable one for a man in his agony. From a streetwalker, the girl, Mildred, was transformed on the TV show into an alcoholic. The whole story, in fact, was dimmed, put into soft focus, and a great and powerful novel became just another hour of television.

* * *

THE PROBLEM of adaptation of great yarns to the arbitrary demands of broadcasting is an acute one and I don't know whether I could solve it any better than the rest of the boys. A writer sets down his story in the length which it demands. The story ends—whether it be page 10 or page 115—when it ends. The radio and television adaptor is stuck with the half or full hour lengths. On NBC's "Short Story," a radio program, (NBC 10:30 p.m., E.S.T. Wednesdays), Ernest Hemingway's "Fifty Grand," a fine story of an aging, finished prizefighter, presented a problem opposite to that of the Maugham novel.

It was a spare story, economical and hard-hitting in its dialogue. As a radio play, it had fat all over it in the wrong places, the authors having to pad out that half hour. In case you never read it, it's the story of a fighter who is more interested in his wife and his kids and his investments than he is in fighting. He lays $50,000 on his opponent in his last fight and then has a terrible time losing, a story of courage in reverse. Somewhere the emphasis got lost in the padded out dialogue. It was just another fight story and Mr. Hemingway's illustrious name was exploited for illicit purposes.

Opener for Prexies

Harding Nine Ties Galion, 5-5, After Seven Innings

Special to The Star

GALION, April 25—The Galion Tigers and Marion Harding baseball teams battled to a 5-5 tie here yesterday afternoon in a game called at the end of seven innings because of darkness.

It was the first game of the season for Harding while the Tigers had five under their belts. All five had been won by the locals.

Don Rhinehart, Galion hurler, allowed only four Harding safeties and walked four while posting nine strikeouts. Jim Edington, Harding moundsman, gave up seven hits and seven bases on balls while whiffing six Tigers. Trailing 5-3 in the sixth inning, the Prexies pushed across two runs to knot the count before the game was called.

Harding travels to Lima Central this afternoon while Galion plays at Cardington under the lights.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

Bevan may have had a point in insisting on free false teeth instead of guns . . . maybe the Laborites were considering biting Russians.

* * *

But the Laborites have given Britain a curious kind of government under which every citizen is entitled to free double dentures to chew one ounce of meat a week.

* * *

It was necessary to hold down the importation of meat in order to provide free teeth not to eat it.

* * *

I don't know what this will do to Eisenhower's plans . . . appearances to be you don't see many men with furs in England but he will see quite a few with lovely smiles.

Veering to the Right

THE end of negotiations with Chiang Kai-shek government for a military assistance program in Formosa will take some of the heat off that detail of the argument over Asiatic policy.

As interpreted by Nationalist Chinese both in Formosa and on the mainland, the program means the United States is committing itself to the support of Chiang's regime in a military sense. Washington now is in a position to learn by observation how effectual a fighting force might be developed on Formosa. And it also is in a position to keep Red China guessing.

The assistance program represents another departure from the previously stated views of Dean Acheson, Secretary of State. In the white paper published almost two years, the State Department wrote off Chiang as a political "lost cause."

There is a question being heard with growing frequency in Washington, as the implications of the Truman-MacArthur controversy are analyzed: If the President of the United States concluded that Gen. MacArthur was a liability to the conduct of a proper foreign policy what is keeping him from reaching the same conclusion about Secretary of State Acheson?

There is only one apparent answer to the question. It is the stubbornness of Mr. Truman. The President feels bound to honor the unwritten rule of politics—to stand by his friends and give no comfort to his enemies. Secretary Acheson is his friend. The people who think Acheson's potential usefulness expired a long time ago are, for the most part, Mr. Truman's political enemies. The country is in the middle.

Charles G. Dawes

IT IS traditional that vice presidents of the United States blend obscurely into the humdrum of their duties and finally be forgotten, while the head of the ticket dies in office. Charles G. Dawes, vice president of the United States under Calvin Coolidge, blended after his fashion, but he never became obscure. That was not his intention.

His death at the age of 85 terminated one of the most remarkable lives of this century and the last period of the preceding one. Mr. Dawes could do anything he wanted to do, and he wanted to do a great deal. His talents ranged from composing and playing violin music to international finance, from being a good companion to smoking a tobacco pipe of unique design.

He moved easily in the circle of the powerful and rich as easily in the company of the help-less. Charles Dawes was one of a happy company of Americans who could achieve stature while seeming to take things easy, instead of standing on tiptoe to make themselves larger than nature intended them to be.

Mao Needs a Victory

UNITED STATES military opinion is in significant agreement about one thing in the new offensive which now apparently has been launched against the defense of South Korea.

The defenders can make the offensive cost more than it is worth. But there will be times in the next few days when the defenders will wonder whether Mao Tse-tung and his generals are using the same scale of values.

The United States and its token allies in South Korea can take a terrible toll of Red Chinese manpower. But the commanders of those troops have plenty of lives to spend. That will be the issue—"Will" to see which side runs out of the commodity of warfare first.

Mao needs a victory. He will be willing to pay a great deal for it.

He can afford to accept his bargain, that probably will be the turning point in the Korean war, if gains on the battlefield then may set in motion political developments whose long delay has driven Gen. MacArthur to be relieved of his command and precipitated a congressional showdown on Asiatic policy.

The news from Korea in the next few days will be of more than the shooting on the showdown than the shooting from Washington.

When Bureaucrats Taste Blood

UNITED STATES economic policy over MacArthur's dismissal is a fair sample of public opinion in the country.

But it is clear that something is going to be done. Both sides have tasted blood in a knock-down-and-drag-out fight for power. Public opinion is in danger of becoming the innocent bystander that gets knocked down in the melee.

The United States itself is in danger of being victimized by the sidelines while some of its jobholders settle a quarrel over relative influences and responsibilities in connection with events in Asia.

Only one agency of government is in a position to protect the national interest against the bigger play of infuriated officials. That is Congress. It must distinguish between what is said to conceal facts and what is said to create facts.

All Up To the Reds

By David Lawrence

Effect of Air Conflict Can't Be Forecast

WASHINGTON

THE Red air offensive may have a decisive effect on American policy in the Far East.

If the Communists, whether from bases in China or Russia, begin to frustrate our air defense in Korea, authority to bomb the Communist bases will be given. There are some rumors that the far Eastern command may already have such contingent instructions.

LAWRENCE

Fundamentally, the main fact, as between those who say that bombarding the Manchurian airfields will bring on a general war and those who say it will not bring any such result is that nobody really knows the Communist intention or policy.

Much has been made by administration spokesman of the point that General MacArthur at Wake Island in October last year, in the course of a discussion of many other things, hazarded the guess that the Chinese Communists would intervene in Korea. Actually General MacArthur had no other information except that furnished him by the Central Intelligence Agency of our government, which presumably has informants throughout the world, and that which came to him from the Department of State.

* * *

IN LINE WITH the belief that Department of State is supposed to be most expert on the subject of political information, General MacArthur relied on the data furnished him by this and other agencies of the government. It will be recalled that, just four of five weeks before the Wake Island conference, not only General MacArthur but the American people as a whole were formally told that Communist China would not intervene in the Korean war. Here is an excerpt from a script prepared in advance by Secretary of State Acheson for a large network of television stations on Sept. 10 last and which has since been published as an official document by the Department of State. It is as follows:

"Mr. Bancroft (of CBS) Well, Mr. Secretary, what are the chances, do you think, of Communist China getting herself involved in support of the Korean Communists?

"Secretary Acheson: I should think it would be sheer madness on the part of the Chinese Communists to do that, and I see no advantage to them in doing it . . .

"Now, I give the people in Peiping credit for being intelligent enough to see what is happening to them. Why they should want to further their own dismemberment and destruction by getting at cross purposes with all the free nations of the world who are inherently their friends and have always been friends of the Chinese as against this imperialism coming down from the Soviet Union I cannot see. And since there is nothing in it for them, I don't see why they should yeild to what is undoubtedly pressures from the Communist movement to get into this Korean row."

* * *

THE FOREGOING was substantially the kind of information which continued to be sent to General MacArthur during the latter part of September and October of last year and he relied on it because the Department of State not only has access through Great Britain to the sources of information of the Indian and Arab governments and the other diplomats in Peiping who are friendly to the Communist government but also to the reports of intelligence officers in the civil branch of our government here who, every day, analyze world-wide reports.

General MacArthur did not have a staff of intelligence agents stationed in Peiping. He might know what the enemy was doing if he had agents behind the enemy lines but air reconnaissance, which was the only certain way to observe what was going on in Manchuria, was denied to the general.

* * *

ON THE SUBJECT of whether or not Russia will intervene in the Korean war more actively than she has already and whether she will feel obliged to come to the aid of Communist China because of a mutual-assistance pact, it is pointed out that policy-makers here have no authoritative information on Russian intentions either. During the greater part of World War II, Russia and Japan had an offensive and defensive alliance which logically should have brought Russia into conflict with the United States when Japan attacked Pearl Harbor and a state of war ensued. But Russia not only ignored that mutual-assistance pact—she subsequently denounced it and joined the United States against Japan.

Nobody in our Department of State or in our military service really knows Russia's intentions. The only good analysis that has been borne out by events was that made by General Clay when he insisted that, if we stood our ground at the time of the Berlin blockade, Russia would not start a war. It is the same kind of analysis as General MacArthur is making today—a diagnosis of military rather than political factors.

Arsenal of Mutilation

By TRUMAN TWILL

BANDAGES and antiseptics now should be procured for the outdoor season, which at last is here. Especially for the use of gardeners.

Like Roman gladiators when they stood before the emperor's box, all gardeners about to be mutilated in the pursuit of vegetables salute those in whose behalf they risk their necks. A gardener deals with a circulated risk, like a fellow who works with TNT.

If he does not step on a rake left lying wrong side up and get blood poisoning, he will conk himself silly with a hoe handle propelled by misplaced toe on the blade.

If the goof uses one of the numerous labor-saving devices powered by a gasoline engine, it is an odds-on bet he will grab a hot exhaust pipe or nip off a finger-end in a pulley before the early peas are ripe.

The array of tools for mutilating any human body to be found in any gardener's garage would have brought pure delight to the hearts of the experts who managed the Spanish inquisition.

There is the spade for example, designed with a handle just short enough to break the back of anyone who stands over 5 feet high. The spade also is recommended for reducing both the number and the length of the toes.

The cultivator is an implement calculated to pop the sacroiliac, twist the stomach out of line, hamstring the operator and lead up to a full-fledged colostus. And it looks so innocent, standing there with its handles outstretched!

Take the wheelbarrow. Embodies the principle of the lever. Nothing like the lever to pry a spinal disc out of line and bring on a long stay in a hospital, strapped to a bed and full of morphine to deaden the pain.

These are only the standard items in the arsenal of mutilation. In addition, there are dozens of special implements for refined work, such as sharp little hoes that can sever a leg artery with a misplaced blow, also tools for pushing and prying which tempt the user to overtax himself until he is softened up for the coup de grace—in most cases a sunstroke early in June.

Any gardener who survives until Independence Day with all fingers and toes intact and no wounds elsewhere requiring more than three stitches to close is living under a lucky star. Either that, or he has surveyed the hazards of gardening and given it up for the duration of his life, which will be a whole lot longer as a result.

Congress Quiz

Q—Who holds the record for the longest service in the House of Representatives?

A—The late Joseph G. Cannon (R) of Illinois, served 46 years as a member of the House, establishing a record for congressional service. Representative Adolph J. Sabath (D) of Illinois who already has served 44 years, hopes to beat his colleague's record. Sabath's 85th birthday was April 4.

A High Art Today

The Issue Is Acheson

By George E. Sokolsky

NOW that Gen. Douglas MacArthur has had his week and the country has burst its bounds of anger and enthusiasm, it becomes clear that politically the quarrel is over Dean Acheson. President Truman has indicated beyond doubt that he has confidence in and supports Acheson and will make such an issue of him that his conduct of the State Department will be before the people from now on until after the election of 1952.

SOKOLSKY

General MacArthur's dismissal has proved to have been a political error on the part of President Truman. The brusque method did not go with the country. After all, General MacArthur has been in the service of his country 42 years and to the public he is a hero. Even those who disagreed with MacArthur's ideas or his conduct felt that the President might have employed some other method than a disgraceful dismissal.

A President's work is so arduous, his responsibilities so great that he too soon becomes a prisoner in the hands of those whom he hires to assist and protect him. Mr. Truman could have been told by his associates that popular opinion has been growing increasingly irritable over the numerous failures of our foreign policy. The machinations of Great Britain have stunned the people.

* * *

I AM NOT discussing whether Dean Acheson or the British or Herbert Hoover or Senator Wherry is correct. I am trying to appraise public opinion, and I am sure that the enormous mail I have received during the past fortnight is public opinion. For while there is disagreement and confusion, there is also surprise and shock. India's attitude toward the United States, Iran's attitude toward the United States, and that amazingly unfriendly speech of Lester Pearson, Canada's secretary for external affairs, have made many who even thought well of Acheson's policies wonder at our stark isolation.

The presence of General MacArthur in the country makes the situation more difficult for Acheson. No man in the United States possesses a more detailed knowledge of the Far East. He may even tell of his basic quarrels with the State Department over the attempt to load his administration with pro-Russian Communists and left-wingers. There is an interesting story in MacArthur's struggle with Acheson which has lasted as long as the two men faced each other officially.

* * *

IT IS ONE of those fortuitous circumstances of politics that the Army officer who received General MacArthur when he set foot on American soil was General Albert Wedemeyer, one of the most brilliant minds in our armed forces and a great authority on Far Eastern affairs. He, too, tangled with Dean Acheson on the Far East and Acheson won the argument. Although Wedemeyer's usefulness to the Joint Chiefs of Staff at this time is beyond doubt, he has been situated at San Francisco in a housekeeping job.

It is impossible to investigate the MacArthur dismissal and the events that led to it without investigating the suppression of the Wedemeyer reports on China and Korea. Nor will it be possible to avoid a study of Acheson's appeasements, which he does not regard as appeasements but as technical negotiations. Acheson's speech to the newspaper women in Washington did not establish his denial of appeasement—which has, since Munich, become an offensive word.

The fact that he chose to speak on the Far East the night before General MacArthur's speech to Congress after a silence since November, indicated to many that Acheson realizes what he faces.

* * *

IT WAS IN that speech that he reverted to MacArthur's earlier proposal for a Pacific alliance, omitting Formosa, of course. But as General MacArthur made clear in his speech to Congress, the Philippines would be imperiled from within and without, should Formosa be held by either Soviet Russia or Soviet China. At any rate, on the subject of the Philippines, no man can speak with greater authority and stature than General MacArthur and he has spoken of both the Philippines and Formosa.

So here we enter upon another debate which will be more vehement, more articulate than the

Plans for Child Health Week

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON

THE NATION will pay special attention to the welfare of its 47,000,000 citizens under 18 years of age the first week in May, which the President annually sets aside as Child Health Week. There will be speeches and conferences and programs in which youth itself will participate.

Miss Katherine F. Lenroot, chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, says the biggest child health challenges today are the emotional problems developing in a world of rapid change and anxiety.

"Emotional and social problems of children are our greatest challenge," she told me. "One measure of these problems is the number of children who come to the attention of juvenile courts. The bureau estimates that some 275,000 youngsters now come before these courts each year."

Although she pointed out that the number of cases has declined each year since World War II, when delinquency reached a high point, she said there seems now to be a leveling off on a new plateau that is much higher than before the war. Juvenile delinquency seems to increase in periods of national emergency, she says.

"Building a good life for children calls for the cooperative effort of many people—families, neighbors and professional workers—working in many ways: through individual initiative, voluntary association and through government," she said. "No one device has a monopoly on wisdom or skills. Each is strengthened by close collaboration with the others."

Periods of special strain and apprehension, such as the present, create special problems for children, Miss Lenroot pointed out, and parents have a special responsibility.

"When parents have the underlying security that enables them to face life with courage," she said, "they can give their children the best possible insulation against fears without their knowing it, their children absorb this protection against scare headlines and alarmists' tales and pictures.

"Teachers too," she said, "can help when they make bomb drills and other protective training of youngsters routine as fire drills, or learning about traffic rules."

Marion County History Brevities

Hogs were always dressed before they were taken to market. Some bright winter morning the farmer would call in his neighbors to help "kill hogs." Large kettles of water were heated; a sled or two, covered with boards, was the platform on which the hogs were cleaned. When everything was arranged, the best shot of the company loaded his rifle, and the work of killing commenced. It was considered a disgrace to make a hog squeal by bad shooting or butchering. As each hog fell, the "sticker" mounted him and plunged a knife into his throat.

Der Fuehrer's Yacht

("The Grille, 476-foot $4,000,000 yacht, once given to Adolf Hitler by the German people, has been towed to Delaware, where it will be scrapped to make war supplies for the American defense effort."—News Item.)

There she squats, Der Fuehrer's yacht,
Her days of glory through.
The junkyard got her in the end
As it got Adolf, too:
Oh, once she played the glamor ship
To Hitler's finger-snap. . . .
Now only one command she hears:
"Bust this babe up for scrap!"

II

Four million bucks she cost to build;
Her health Der Fuehrer drunk
(On cruises most infrequent for
His sailing form was punk);
The Lord of All the Earth, he felt,
Proclaiming it with ease . . .
But Adolf wasn't quite the type
To lord it on the seas.

III

Still she was called the Hitler ship
And in the stark mad days
She was a regal, haughty gal
With autocratic ways.
Aboard her Nazis sang the tune
"Der world is in der bag" . . .
But now she meets the drabbest death,
A doomed, unpretty hag.

IV

Once Nazi sea lords strode her decks
With plans to lick us all.
Her cabins echoed with their boasts
Of how the foes would fall:
"Der Fuehrer!" rang the endless toasts,
"Dose Yankees vee vil schlam!" . . .
And now from her a suit of mail
Is made for Uncle Sam!

V

From Eva's cabin there shall come
Gun parts for some G.I. . .
Steel beams from Adolf's suite shall make
Planes for our lads to fly. . . .
From where the Nazis banquetted
Shell cases may emerge;
This bridge into a tank shall go
For some Korean surge!

VI

In freedom's cause each bolt shall serve
In war fought hot or cold.
Swastikas have no power now—
No Fuehrer bellows "Hold!" . . .
Far off "Ach, Gott!" a ghost exclaims,
"More bad news and more yet!
Look! Donnerwetter! You more proof
How wrong a guy can get!"

"$125,000 Worth of Morphine Found On Big Mo"—headline. Is that why it has been called a dream ship?

Veterans and Draftees Guide —

—By—
Major Thomas M. Nial

ARE YOU ONE of the thousands who went through Army OCS during the war but did not transfer to the Army reserves after separation? If so, you probably are worried about whether the Army still has a string on you.

It does. You are not in the Army reserves, but you are still technically in the Army of the United States (AUS) and subject to recall.

The term "Army of the United States" has now been abandoned, but it was made up of the National Guard and Army reserves on active duty, the Regular Army and then a whole flock of soldiers and officers not in any of these components. Wartime draftees, for instance, went into the "AUS without component."

Wartime commissions given through Army OCS were appointments in the AUS without component. Such commissions were to remain in effect for the duration of World War II plus six months. Legally World War II is not yet over. It won't be until we sign peace treaties with Germany, Japan and Austria.

* * *

YOU CAN SEE what this means: Officers with straight AUS commissions are still subject to recall by the Army.

The same is true of many, but not all, of those given direct AUS commissions as specialists during the war. It depends under which act each commission was given.

You run into some further snafu if you were in the former Army Air Corps. Some Air Corps officers had AUS commissions too. If they were separated from active service prior to the Unification Act of 1947, when the Army Air Corps became the Air Force, they are still carried on the roles of the Army. They are subject to recall by the Army, not the Air Force.

None of these AUS-ers need worry for the present. The Army says it has no plans whatsoever to recall any of its straight AUS officers at this time. They're nothing more than names on a list.

* * *

HOW ABOUT AUS warrant officers? The Army says their obligation was completed when they were separated. They cannot be recalled involuntarily.

How about wartime flight officers in the Army Air Corps? The Air Force says they still hold their appointments in the Air Force of the United States, an organization paralleling the AUS, but that there is no plan to recall any of them.

A few AUS officers have written me to ask whether they can resign their AUS commissions. If they want to join a regular force or a civilian component of another service, they must get a conditional release first from their AUS appointment by applying to the Adjutant General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C.

That is the only time an inactive AUS officer may resign. The Air Force, for instance, won't commission a former AUS officer until he gets that conditional release from the Army A. G.

* * *

BUT IF AN inactive AUS officer joins another component of the Army, he retains his AUS status. He might enlist in the Regular Army, National Guard or reserves, for instance, though actually he could apply for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps under Army reg SR 140-105-2.

If he should then be discharged from such enlistment, or resign such reserve or National Guard commission, he would revert back to inactive AUS status.

One final important item: Inactive AUS service does count as service for pay purposes. Say Bill Johnson was drafted into the Army in 1943, got on AUS commission from OCS, was separated in 1947 and now takes a captain's commission in the reserves to go on active duty. His pay will be figured, not on four years' service (1943 to 1947) but on eight years (1943 to 1951).

His monthly basic pay will be not $327.75 for over four years' service but $356.25 for over eight years' service.

GIVE TO CANCER FUND

A contribution was voted to be made to the cancer fund campaign when the Auxiliary to Dyer J. Bird Chapter, Rainbow Division of Ohio, met Friday night with Mrs. Fred Miller on Forest street. The Lord's Prayer by the group opened the meeting for which Mrs. Ray Jacobs presided. Reports of various committees were given. During the social hour, contest honors went to Mrs. Ralph Horseman and Mrs. Carl Van Voorhis, and refreshments were served by the hostess.

A short business meeting followed the films. Modern Grandma

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — Before the species dies out altogether, someone ought to get out and trap a few old-fashioned grandma.

And they ought to trap a real old-fashioned grandpa, too, and put them on exhibit in the American Museum of Natural History somewhere between the dinosaur and the brontosaurus.

But I suppose it is too late. Are there any real old-fashioned grandparents left? If there are I don't see them.

HAL BOYLE

WELL, THAT'S THE kind of grandma and grandpa I was raised to believe in. But today they're about as legendary as Santa Claus. I have met a lot of grandparents recently, but none of them were sewing quilts or sitting by the fireside.

They have become streamlined—just like trains, airplanes and motor cars. The jet age grandma doesn't want to look like Whistler's Mother. Her model is Marlene Dietrich, who is a grandma, too, but gets a little tired of having that fact mentioned so much.

Yep, grandma has done gone in for glamor and sex appeal. The only needle she knows is the one she gives grandpa for stopping off at a bar on his way home. She no longer has silver threads among the gold. She's a platinum blonde. And oy golly, and by peroxide, she's going stay a blonde!

SHE AND GRANDPA don't hang out in their children's chimney corner. The younguns live with them, and grandpa usually pays the rent.

The big argument about the house now isn't whether the grandchildren should be spanked. It's about whose turn it is to stay home and baby sit—mother's or grandmother's.

"Encore you kids," says grandma firmly. "You stay home and raise 'em. Your father and I are already 15 minutes late to our samba lesson."

Nope, grandma is done with diapers. She'd rather play canasta or talk about the foreign policy.

Recently I visited a household that has one of those golden-haired little tots that used to fall asleep on grandpa's lap. She was prettily begging her mother to let her stay up until midnight—just this once.

"Why!" said the harassed mother.

"I want to see grandma come home," explained the tot.

AND AT A PARTY I went to I spent an hour with a couple of these streamlined grandmas. One was teaching the other how to blow smoke rings, and all they discussed was baseball and who would win the Kentucky Derby. Gave me kind of an eerie feeling, too.

You don't think grandma and grandpa are stepping out?

"Listen," said a night club operator, "if they passed a law that grandmas couldn't come out after dark I'd have to close up this joint."

When the wolf knocks on the door where Red Riding Hood's grandma lives he isn't coming for a free meal. He's got a date.

Well it's kind of sad to have the old-fashioned grandma and the old-fashioned grandpa vanish like the dodo. But the new streamlined models seem to have a lot more fun. They may not act their age, but it's rather nice to see the old folks growing young so disgracefully.

Uncle Frank

By Inez Robb

SAN FRANCISCO — Today's essay is devoted to the father people and price [illegible] and [illegible] racing. [illegible] deal with my paternal uncle Frank Callaway [illegible] the Tucker body.

I haven't picked up a long-shot [illegible] in the past 10 years that hasn't had a polysyllabic price about genarious the science of growing old. The doctors and the scientists have been making a hell of money out of this subject ever since man began to live longer and had less to do.

Inez Robb

There has been a lot of [illegible] to do with old [illegible] particularly [illegible] stressed [illegible] I like to [illegible] a good look at Uncle Frank [illegible] to this pressing problem. Of course, one thing that may baffle the M.D.'s and the Ph.D.'s is that Uncle Frank doesn't know his age, although he will never live to again get this confusing fact on the books, as I said this is about 20 years his own junior.

• • •

UNCLE FRANK'S [illegible] will be [illegible]. So it [illegible] the property of [illegible] and [illegible] like Uncle Frank, stable, with the result that he is not a problem to anyone, including himself. He is, we all suspect, having the time of his life.

"My sunset years may not be exactly gaudy," he said yesterday, "but they aren't exactly drab either."

Uncle Frank came into town yesterday from Bay Meadows, a race track not far from San Francisco to take his niece to luncheon. He could spare the time from the track since none of his three horses was racing that day. And no woman ever had a handsomer escort than this gentleman with his thick white hair, his immaculate linen, his biege slacks and his tailor-made sports jacket.

• • •

IT WAS THIS WAY, Uncle Frank said. When Aunt Minnie died, he was almost 70, and the children were grown and had homes and families of their own. And the big cattle ranch in Nevada seemed mighty lonely. He'd been on the state livestock commission for years, but it wasn't any fun going to the meetings in Reno without Aunt Minnie.

So he sold out, lock stock and barrel. And he whacked up the money between three or four banks. And then he bought himself a de luxe trailer and a few race horses.

"Well", everyone said "there's no fool like an old fool." Uncle Frank said as we dug into the bourbon and the boeuf a la mode. "They kept saying I wouldn't have a penny left inside of 18 months.

"But," he said proudly, "I've never touched a penny of the money I banked the day I sold the ranch and the cattle."

HE FOLLOWS THE SUN through the Southwest and the West, racing his little stable where the sun is warm. And the trailer is his home.

I never knew a Callaway woman who couldn't cook or a Callaway man who could but Uncle Frank has reversed the field. He took up cooking along with horse racing, and today his reputation as a chef among racing people is even as that of the late Oscar of the Waldorf. He gives banquets in the trailer.

"Of course, this isn't the first time I've owned race horses," Uncle Frank said. "Before you were born, I kind of inched away from home in my teens and managed to buy a race horse that was real famous throughout the west.

"I guess you know that your grandfather Asbill's ranch up in Lake County, Cal., was right next to Lily Langtry's. Anyway, I saved enough money to but a colt from the Jersey Lily. It was a colt named Quick Silver that eventually beat almost everything on four legs, before I went into the cattle business myself."

Uncle Frank looked kinda dreamy.

"Yes, sir, there was a woman, the Jersey Lily," he said. "First lady I ever saw ride astride. When she used to ride to town, all the women went indoors and pulled down the blinds. And all the men came outdoors and put down stakes. Fair enough, I always felt."

Anyone in the audience want to ask any questions about geriatrics, horse racing or Lily Langtry.

THE ORDER FREEZING [illegible]

WASHINGTON NOTES: — Unlike the C. I. O., the A. F. L. bedecked its building with all available flags Thursday in honor of Gen. MacArthur . . .

The odds are with you if you wager Charles E. Wilson will resign as chief mobilizer in 90 days. But first he'll name either the A. F. L. Machinists Leader Al J. Hayes or Auto Union Chief Walter Reuther as his special assistant. Reuther could have it, but apparently has changed his mind about either going into the U. S. Senate or on the government war boards. However, there's much conferencing going on and anything can happen . . .

Don't count out John L. Lewis. True, Harry Truman has never forgiven John L. for insulting him in 1948 as a "great incompetent" and has been trying to push the coal-digger into the cold. But Lewis, behind the scenes, has been advising Charles Wilson, and has had long distance telephone conversations and across-the-table conferences with the man who probably will head the government's new wage board. I won't name him because I don't want to hurt him. He's good. And he'll certainly not freeze Lewis out—if he's appointed next week . . .

A FAMILY OF FOUR, consisting of an employed father, a housewife and two children under 15, need $3,453 a year to live averagely in New Orleans, and about 600 more in Milwaukee, the U. S. Labor Dept. has just estimated. And it reports that the cost of living in 32 other cities runs somewhere in between.

STRIKE FRONT: — Bitterness between the Westinghouse Corp. in Pittsburgh and Jim Carey's Electrical Workers Union may end in the shutting of the plant there, now turning out jet aircraft engines. In recent weeks there have been 33 work stoppages, effecting 16,156 men who lost 118,103 man hours in this vital war plant.

St all springs from the C. I. O.'s eagerness to thoroughly unionize the plant and drive the pro-Commie U. E. electronic workers from the factory and the area. The left wingers have concentrated some of their brainiest organizers there and are a constant threat to the security of Jim Carey's new anti-Communist unions, the I. U. E.

The anti-Communists want the right to have their stewards go anywhere in the plant to unionize and recruit. The company says its contract prohibits this. There have been other grievances and controversies ending in flash strikes. Result is that the other day a company vice president warned that Westinghouse would shut the huge plant until it was guaranteed uninterrupted production. The next day, another flash strike hit part of the company in the area and jet production ceased as the firm sent 1500 non-striking workers home.

This is the first instance of war work being slowed by non-Communist union leaders.
